

Hello Comcast Engineering & Drafting Supervisors,

The reason for this communication is to provide details for acquiring the necessary Autodesk software licenses for the @MApp application within your market.

@MApp (<http://www.attmapp.net/>), A tool that is utilized by some Comcast markets in support of outside plant drafting & standardization. @MApp currently runs on top of the following retired AutoCAD Map versions; 2000, 2000i, & 2002. Although we are planning on upgrading @MApp to run on AutoCAD Map3D, the latest version of the Autodesk software, the upgrade timeline has not yet been confirmed.

AutoCAD versions 2004 and higher introduced a significant change in AutoCAD's development API as it was built on the .NET platform. This change in the development platform made it mandatory that the @MApp code also be upgraded to a .NET standard for it to continue to function with the latest versions. Although we have not had a chance to update the source code of @MApp, it will be necessary to have your Autodesk licensing up-to-date when @MApp is upgraded to the current version of AutoCAD Map3D. In addition, to ensure that we can obtain valid software licenses of AutoCAD Map 2002 for any new @MApp installations during this interim period, we have put together an Autodesk specific @MApp Licensing Agreement for both Comcast and our respective contractors.

Autodesk's @MApp Licensing Agreement

Autodesk has agreed that once you sign the @MApp license agreement for your market, you can purchase or upgrade to the latest version of AutoCAD Map3D while still ensuring that you have access to Autodesk Map 2002 software. Autodesk will include the AutoCAD Map 2002 media (CD) with your upgrade/purchase to meet your current @MApp needs. As mentioned, if you currently have a version of AutoCAD software that is incompatible with @MApp (i.e. AutoCAD Map3D), or have licenses that are currently retired (i.e. Autodesk Map 2000, 2000i, 2002), you will now be able to use any of your existing licenses, as long as they have a maintenance agreement, in addition to your existing seats of AutoCAD Map 2002. This offer is also available to your drafting contractors as long as they sign the @MApp agreement and meet the necessary license requirements.

Please note that three requirements exist for the @MApp agreement to be valid:

1. All your Autodesk licenses are under the Comcast name. Old TCI, AT&T Broadband, Adelphia, etc... licenses will need to have the company name updated.
2. You must complete the "Prior Use Agreement" for @MApp
3. You must have a Maintenance Subscription on all current licenses that are not Autodesk Map 2000, 2000i or 2002.

The special Autodesk pricing details for this Comcast @MApp – Autodesk upgrade are on the following pages.

Autodesk Point of Contact:

Map 2002 – Prior Use Agreement (see the following pages)

As you are aware, Comcast's @MApp is standardized on the Autodesk Map 2002 platform. In order to maximize the required investment in software, we have established a special program with Autodesk that will allow each market and related contractors to procure the Autodesk Map 3D 2007 licenses with subscription and be provided with media for Autodesk Map 2002 at no additional charge. Autodesk will provide the necessary Previous Version Media - Exception Request application as part of the software procurement process. Subscription is required.

Prices may change after the listed “Special Promotion End Date”; contact Dan Berman of Autodesk for the most current prices.

Previous Version Media - Exception Request Application

Licensee (“You” or “Your”) acknowledge that pursuant to the Subscription Terms and Conditions, You may continue to utilize Previous Versions, as defined and subject to the Subscription Terms and Conditions. In addition, You acknowledge that Autodesk is not obligated to provide additional media or activations for Your use of Previous Versions and that you are submitting this Application to request an exception to the Subscription Terms and Conditions to receive additional media and/or activations. If Autodesk approves this application, the delivery of any additional media and/or activations for Previous Versions shall be subject to the following terms and conditions which shall supplement the Subscription Terms and Conditions for the duration of your paid Subscription term:

1. Your request for Previous Version media may only be approved by an authorized Autodesk representative. Such approval must be attached to this form and retained for your records. Authorized Autodesk resellers or other agents working on behalf of Autodesk are not authorized to approve such use, or modify any terms within the Software License Agreement that accompanies the Product, or the Subscription Terms and Conditions that govern the delivery of Subscription benefits;
2. Subject to availability, as long as you have paid and are active on Subscription and the Subscription Terms and Conditions enable you to continue to utilize Previous Versions, if you are approved for Previous Version media, you do not have to submit subsequent requests using this form. Instead, if you need additional media, attach the approved, countersigned form to your media request and attach this form to any subsequent Subscription order, new or renewals;
3. You acknowledge that Autodesk periodically discontinues the sales and support of Previous Versions, and that support may no longer be available for any such Previous Versions utilized. You also acknowledge that Autodesk Subscription Terms and Conditions provide that the Subscription Terms and Conditions govern what Product versions are covered and that currently only the current Release and the two (2) immediately preceding releases of Products are included. In the event any such Previous Version has been discontinued or Autodesk no longer distributes the Previous Versions, Autodesk may not deliver Previous Version media, license files, or activations. Autodesk acknowledges that your request for Previous Version media does pertain to a Product that has been retired (AutoCAD Map 2002) and in accordance with the grant of this Previous Media exception request, Autodesk agrees to provide you with media for AutoCAD Map 2002 as long as it has the underlying rights to do so and you are current with Subscription and as other set forth in this document;
4. Your use of the Previous Versions is extended only during your Subscription term, or during any renewal of your Subscription term as long as such right is included in the Subscription Terms and Conditions. In the event that your Subscription term expires or you no longer have the right to use Previous Versions, you must uninstall and discontinue use of the Previous Version media provided by Autodesk, pursuant to the requirements of the applicable Software License Agreement or any other terms and conditions provided by Autodesk.

5. Your use of the Previous Versions shall at all times remain in compliance with the Software License Agreement that accompanied the Product, as well as the Subscription Terms and Conditions, including the supplemental terms provided herein.
